

Canadian Society in the Twenty-First Century, Fourth Edition

An Historical Sociological Approach

Now in its fourth edition, Canadian Society in the Twenty-First Century examines Canada's development and current circumstances in a socio-historical framework. This foundational text encourages students to consider some of the tough questions Canadian citizens are likely to face in adjusting to the demands and challenges of life in the twenty-first century. Divided into three sections, the text investigates economic, political, cultural, and ideological perspectives through three main relationships: Canada and Quebec, Canada and the United States, and Canada and Indigenous Peoples. Each of these sections deals with large issues impacting all societies in the early 21st century: nationalism, neo-liberalism, and cultural values of social solidarity that persist, despite modernity. The final chapter revisits the importance of socio-historical methods, the roles of state and markets, and sociological theory in a wider context, ending with a look at the sociological implications of the global pandemic.

Exploring the unique character of modern Canadian society, this is a vibrant introductory resource for sociology courses on Canadian society, as well as undergraduate courses in Canadian studies and Canadian history across North America. FEATURES

- features updated statistics and data that reflect current scholarship in the field and new discussions on issues such as the current crisis of neo-liberal globalization, Canada's petroleum industry, global warming, the Wet'suwet'en dispute in 2020, and the COVID-19 pandemic
- includes annotated lists of recommended readings, videos, and websites, critical thinking questions, and a newly added glossary
- integrates sociological concepts in an accessible and engaging way to help students understand the foundations of contemporary Canadian society

Author Information

Trevor W. Harrison

Trevor W. Harrison is Professor of Sociology at the University of Lethbridge and director of the Parkland Institute. His areas of specialization include Canadian society, political economy, and public policy.

John W. Friesen

John W. Friesen is Professor of Education at the Werklund School of Education, University of Calgary. His research interests include teacher education, ethnic studies, and Indigenous education.

Reviews

"This is the best and most readable text on Canadian society. It takes a fresh look at current issues including the pandemic and the climate emergency and delves into the tensions and dynamics that shaped Canada: (1) the dialogue and tensions between Quebecers and English-speaking Canadians, (2) the dominant, sometimes dominating relationship with the United States, and (3) relations, tensions, and equity issues between non-Indigenous Canadians and First Nations, Métis, and Inuit. No other text focuses on these key themes."

—Gordon Laxer, Professor Emeritus of Political Economy, University of Alberta, and author of After the Sands: Energy and Ecological Security for Canadians

"This book offers an original discussion of Canadian affairs from the beginning until today. The book is most impressive in its ability to illuminate a broad range of historical events, social trends, and modern-day issues with the help of sociological concepts drawn from Marx, Durkheim, Weber, and contemporary social theorists. It does all of this in a compact, accessible, and engaging package. Students will love it."

—Daniel Marien, Associate Lecturer, School of Politics, Security and International Affairs, University of Central Florida

Table of Contents

Acknowledgements
Note to the Fourth Edition
Introduction: What Is Society?

PART 1: CANADA AND QUEBEC

Chapter 1: Living with the Consequences of 1760
Chapter 2: 100 Years of Solitudes
Chapter 3: The Constitutional Years and Their Aftermath
Chapter 4: The Return of the Nation

PART 2: CANADA AND THE UNITED STATES

Chapter 5: The Making of English Canada
Chapter 6: English Canada in Transition
Chapter 7: From Colony to Nation—to Colony?
Chapter 8: Canada in a Neo-Liberal (and Post-Neo-Liberal?) World

PART 3: CANADA AND THE INDIGENOUS NATIONS

Chapter 9: When Cultural Worlds Collide
Chapter 10: Keepers of the North
Chapter 11: The Fight for Justice
Chapter 12: New Learning Paths

Subjects

Canadian Studies
History
Political Science
Sociology

410 pages

6.75 x 9.75 inches

February 2021

ISBN: 9781773382203

Available at:

<https://www.canadianscholars.ca/books/canadian-society-in-the-twenty-first-century-fourth-edition>

To request a review copy:

info@canadianscholars.ca

416-929-2774

Related Books

Canadian Society in the Twenty-First Century, Third Edition
Trevor W. Harrison, John W. Friesen
Working Women in Canada
Leslie Nichols
Women and Popular Culture in Canada
Laine Zisman Newman
The Spaces and Places of Canadian Popular Culture
Victoria Kannen, Neil Shyminsky
The First Nations of Ontario
Edward J. Hedican
Decolonizing and Indigenizing Education in Canada
Sheila Cote-Meek, Taima Moeke-Pickering