

Media Literacy for Citizenship

A Canadian Perspective

Offering a critical perspective, Media Literacy for Citizenship emphasizes the ability to analyze media messages as a fundamental component of engaged citizenship. The first five chapters explore the landscape of media today, while the next four chapters present critical insight into special topics that include climate change, diversity in Canada, Indigenous issues, and war and terror. The concluding chapter discusses the role and future of journalism in society. Each chapter forms a mini-lesson and encompasses three core elements: an essay on a subject area important to critical media literacy; a list of case examples that can be used for assignments; and a list of key terms common to all chapters and cases. The diverse topics of study and the rich pedagogy make this book a perfect resource for courses in communications, journalism, media studies, and education.

Author Information

Kirsten Kozolanka

Kirsten Kozolanka is a Professor Emerita in the School of Journalism and Communications at Carleton University.

Paul Orłowski

Paul Orłowski is an Associate Professor in the College of Education at the University of Saskatchewan.

Reviews

"This book offers a fresh and urgent take on media literacy by combining the tools, skills, and approaches of media literacy research with democratic theory and political action. The book helps answer a vital question: what major issues do we need to better understand to be engaged citizens of the world, and what role do media and media institutions play in these issues?"

—Nicole S. Cohen, Institute of Communication, Culture, Information, and Technology, University of Toronto

"Kozolanka and Orłowski have produced a tremendously valuable text for those readying themselves to do journalism, as well as any student seeking to understand the power of news media to shape and restrict how Canadians imagine the potential for democratic change. Its Canadian focus fills a void, given specific challenges and opportunities here, including the handful of for-profit companies that dominate media markets, a mounting anti-colonization movement, and the powerful influence of American media on Canadian culture."

—Deirdre M. Kelly, Department of Educational Studies, University of British Columbia

Subjects

Communication and Cultural Studies
Political Science

268 pages

6.75 x 9.75 inches

August 2018

ISBN: 9781773380797

Available at:

<https://www.canadianscholars.ca/books/media-literacy-for-citizenship>

To request a review copy:

info@canadianscholars.ca

416-929-2774

Toll-Free: 1-800-463-1998

Table of Contents

Contents

Preface vi

Introduction viii

Chapter 1: Ideology Critique and the Media in an Era of Neoliberalism 1

Chapter 2: Building an Inclusive Society: The Role of Alternative Media 24

Chapter 3: Democracy in a Changing Landscape of Media Sources 44

Chapter 4: Media Literacy in an Era of Fake News and Alternative Facts 70

Chapter 5: The Public Media Challenge in a Fractured Media Society 99

Chapter 6: the "science" of climate change and the (Mis)informed Citizen 119

Chapter 7: The Other: The Canadian Mosaic Hits a Roadblock? 145

Chapter 8: Indigenous Representation in the Media 164

Chapter 9: War and Terror: Militarization and the Fearful Citizen 193

Chapter 10: The Role and Future of Journalism in Society 210

Glossary 228

About the Authors 234

Index 235

Related Books

Creative Industries in Canada

Miranda Campbell, Cheryl Thompson

Developing Public Policy, Second Edition

Bobby Siu

Canadian Communication Policy and Law (prerelease)

Professional Communications in the Public Sector
Ted Glenn
Developing Public Policy
Bobby Siu